Art on a Journey It started with an idea Darren Di Lieto had: Challenge illustrators and designers to create works of art on packages, envelopes and postcards - then actually send them to him through the mail. The response was overwhelming, and Di Lieto posted photos of each piece of art on MailMeArt.com, so people the world over could follow the art on its journey from artist to post office to computer screen. The images are preserved in this book to inspire you as well. Inside, discover: 200 of the best pieces of mail art from the project, showcasing the variety and depth of the international illustration community. Interviews with 17 of the artists - including Jon Burgerman, Dan May, Kristian Olson, Michael Slack, Catalina Estrada and Jeff Miracola - that give insight into the work and the spirit of the project. Darren Di Lieto's firsthand experience of the challenges and joys of organizing this worldwide project, from storing the mail art to the daily anticipation of art in the mailbox. Mail Me Art began with an idea. It became a community. But it doesn't end there. Open this book, experience the array of mail art illustration, and become part of the journey.

Barry, an award-winning English and writing professor, has assembled an intriguing miscellany of letter-writing history, facts, nearly 200 quotations, and writing suggestions. The book closes with an invitation to submit copies of treasured personal letters for a forthcoming volume.

"What is a good mail day?" A good mail day is a day when, instead of just bills, catalogs, and advertisements, your postal carrier delivers artful, beautiful, personal mail from friends and acquaintances all over the world. Mail art is a collaborative art form with a long and fascinating history populated by famous artists as well as everyday practitioners. The term "mail art" refers to pieces of art sent through the mail rather than displayed or sold in traditional venues. Mail artists often use inexpensive and recycled materials including postcards, collage, rubber stamps, and photocopied images. Mail art is a truly international activity and a fun way to connect with people in every corner of the globe. Readers will learn to create decorated and illustrated envelopes, faux postage and artistamps, find penpals, make a mail art kit, and much more!

Suvarna, a simple Indian girl, neither poor nor rich, lives a normal life in India. She loves life and her friends. After a traumatic experience in her young life, at the age of nineteen she goes to her mother in Germany, where she lives a carefree life. Then she goes to Austria and meets her husband. Even after experiences that test her, she does not give up, goes her way and eventually reaches a very good level in her profession. A few years later, the family moves to Jakarta for some time for professional reasons. Unfortunately, such happiness attracts, in addition to many positive outcomes, sometimes negative reactions, most often envy. A group of women come together for different motivations and, with the support of some people who are looking for Suvarna's international contacts, target Suvarna's entire network on the most popular private and professional networking sites. After the first invented story, it's easy to keep going, so they do. The result: false accusations against Suvarna, prepared witnesses, massive intrusions into her privacy, attempted damage to her reputation through manipulated stories, the resulting destruction and spreading of her privacy, betrayal by her own friends and relatives, destruction of all trust, and unfortunately a thorough acquaintance with the dark side of human nature. One of the main purposes of all the betrayal? Networking! Suvarna's story is an autobiographical novel that alternates between the past and the present and moves very subtly in the genres crime, psychological and conspiracy stories.

Written for anyone who owns or manages a small business or non-profit, this practical guide, filled with proven advice and the author's vast experience, shows readers how to attract new prospects and generate repeat sales through existing customers and social networks.
